

NDIS Progress Note

Participant Support Documentation Summary

Participant	Participant	Date of Support	July 23, 2026
Support Worker	Not specified	Document Generated	July 23, 2026 02:20 PM
Consent Noted	Not documented

SUBJECTIVE

Participant reported feeling good lately and more confident than before. Participant stated that during shopping this week they felt less envious than previously. Participant reported feeling very angry when a neighbour woman was in the store. Participant shared that when going to the park and seeing children, they feel less angry and are able to control their nerves. Participant also reported having a headache during the supported activity.

OBJECTIVE

Support discussion reviewed the participant's experiences over the past week. Participant described improved confidence, reduced envy while shopping, and improved emotional control when at the park. Participant identified a trigger for anger when encountering a neighbour woman in the store. Participant reported a headache during the supported activity.

ASSESSMENT

Participant presented with increased confidence and reported some improvement in emotional regulation in community settings, including shopping and visiting the park. Participant was able to identify both progress and triggers, indicating growing insight into emotional responses. Participant also experienced a headache during the supported activity, which may have affected comfort and engagement. Ongoing support may assist with managing anger triggers in the community.

PLAN

Continue to monitor participant's confidence, emotional regulation, and wellbeing during community-based supports. Support participant to discuss community experiences and identify strategies for managing anger triggers during future sessions. Monitor and document any further reports of headache during supports.

PARTICIPANT VOICE

"I've been feeling good lately. I've been feeling a bit more confident than before." "I went to shopping and not like before I've been feeling less envious while shopping." "The neighbor woman was in the store and that made me really angry." "When I go to the park, when I see the children, I feel less angry and I can control my nerves."

SUPPORT TYPE PROVIDED

Emotional regulation and community participation support

RISKS / INCIDENTS

Participant reported anger triggered by seeing a neighbour woman in the store. Participant also reported a headache during the supported activity. No incident, harm, or immediate safety risk documented.

LINKED NDIS GOALS

Not documented.