SUBJECTIVE

Mike reported he has been doing good overall, with some days where he feels frustrated. He described a recent experience on a bus as tough, stating he could not cope, felt nervous, and was affected by people staring at him. Feedback indicates he suffered a head injury during the activity.

OBJECTIVE

Discussion focused on Mike's recent community access experience using public transport and the emotional impact it had on him. It was noted that Mike suffered a head injury during the activity. No other activities or interventions were documented.

ASSESSMENT

Mike presented as generally doing well but experiencing intermittent frustration. The reported bus incident indicates difficulty coping in community settings, particularly when feeling observed by others, which contributed to nervousness and uncertainty about how to respond. A head injury was also noted as having occurred during the activity, indicating a safety concern requiring monitoring and clear documentation.

PLAN

Continue to provide support to discuss community access experiences and coping strategies for situations that cause nervousness or frustration. Monitor Mike's confidence and coping when using public transport and in public settings. Monitor and document any ongoing impact related to the reported head injury and escalate as required.

PARTICIPANT VOICE

'I've been doing good. There are days where I feel frustrated.' 'Last time I went to a bus and then it was tough. I could not cope like people were staring at me and I felt nervous. So yeah I didn't know what to do.'
